Custom Software Systems, Inc. (CSS) Changes Name to CSS Health Technologies

Nashville, TN, November 15, 2011--Custom Software Systems (CSS) announces today that it will change the company name to CSS Health Technologies and take part in an aggressive rebranding campaign, effective immediately.

CSS Health Technologies is a name that more accurately reflects the changes in not just the company itself, but in the industry as well," said Richie Wilkes, CSS Health Technologies President and CEO. "Today we are a forward thinking company driven in our quest to enhance and make available technology for rural and community hospitals, as a result, improving the health of its citizens.

Wilkes added, "CSS Health Technologies is the appropriate name for our company, given that we are more than software developers. We are a trusted partner and industry leader in Healthcare IT with all of our clients, current and future.

About CSS Health Technologies
